About the Texas Behavioral Health and Justice Technical Assistance Center

The Texas Behavioral Health and Justice Technical Assistance Center (TA Center) provides specialized technical assistance for behavioral health and justice partners to improve forensic services and reduce and prevent justice involvement for people with a mental illness (MI), substance use disorder (SUD), and/or intellectual and developmental disability (IDD). Established in 2022, the TA Center is supported by HHSC and provides free training, guidance, and strategic planning support, both in person and virtually, on a variety of behavioral health and justice topics to support local agencies and communities working collaboratively across systems to improve outcomes for people with MI, SUD, and/or IDD.

The TA Center, on behalf of HHSC, has adopted the SIM as a strategic planning tool for the state and communities across Texas. The TA Center hosts SIM mapping workshops to bring together community leaders, government agencies, and systems to identify strategies for diverting people with MI, SUD, and/or IDD, when appropriate, away from the justice system into clinically appropriate services. The goal of the Texas SIM Mapping Initiative is to ensure that all counties have access to the SIM and SIM mapping workshops.

The TA Center collaborates with TIEMH to facilitate SIM workshops. TIEMH strengthens behavioral health systems by conducting research, supporting implementation, training workforces, and advising policy. TIEMH's expertise in these areas advances the TA Center's initiatives through their collaboration in helping communities bridge mental health and justice systems and driving systems level change.

Introduction

The Sequential Intercept Model (SIM), developed by Mark R. Munetz, M.D. and Patricia A. Griffin, Ph.D., has been used as a focal point for states and communities to assess available opportunities, determine gaps in services, and plan for community change.<sup>1</sup> These activities are best accomplished by a team of stakeholders across multiple systems, including mental health, substance use, law enforcement, jails, pre-trial services, courts, community corrections, housing, health, and social services. They should also include the participation of people with lived experience, family members, and community leaders.

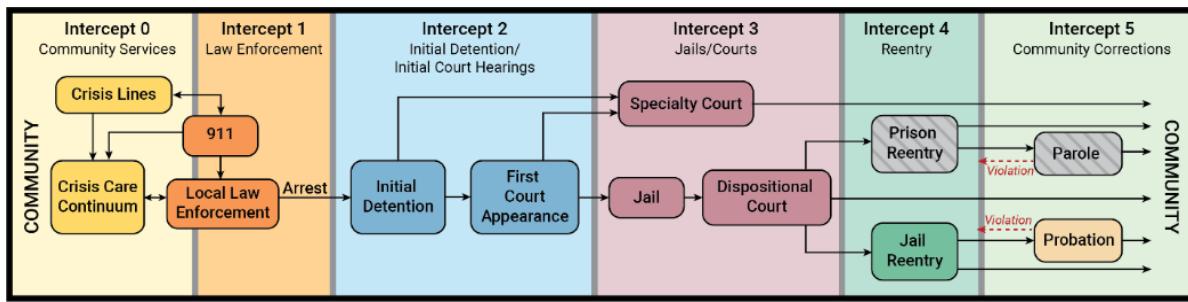

The SIM is a strategic planning tool that maps how people with behavioral health needs encounter and move through the criminal justice system within a community. Through a SIM mapping workshop, facilitators and participants identify opportunities to link people with MI, SUD, and/or IDD to services and prevent further penetration into the criminal justice system.

The SIM mapping workshop has three primary objectives:

1. Development of a comprehensive picture of how people with MI and co-occurring SUDs move through the justice system along six distinct intercept points: (0) Community Services, (1) Law Enforcement, (2) Initial Detention and Initial Court Hearings, (3) Jails and Courts, (4) Reentry, and (5) Community Corrections/Community Support.
2. Identification of gaps and opportunities at each intercept for people in the target population.
3. Development of strategic priorities for activities designed to improve system and service level responses for people in the target population.

In 2025, Brown County conducted a SIM mapping workshop to foster behavioral health and justice collaborations and to improve diversion efforts for people with MI, SUD, and/or IDD. The SIM workshop was divided into three sessions: 1) Introductions and overview of the SIM; 2) Developing the local map; and 3) Action planning. The workshop took place on February 27-28, 2025, in Brownwood, Texas. See Appendix A for detailed workshop agenda.

Note: This report intends to capture point-in-time discussion, priorities, and resources that were discussed by attendees during the February 2025 Brown County SIM mapping workshop. Report authors aim to capture a robust picture of services offered in Brown County, while acknowledging that unintentional omissions may exist. All gaps and opportunities and action planning priorities identified reflect the opinions of participating stakeholders, not HHSC.

Opportunities and Gaps at Each Intercept

As part of the mapping activity, facilitators helped workshop participants to identify key services, stakeholders, and gaps and opportunities at each intercept. This process is important due to the ever-changing nature of justice and behavioral health services systems. The opportunities and gaps identified provide contextual information for understanding the local map. The catalogue below was developed during the workshop by participants and can be used by policymakers and systems planners to improve public safety and public health outcomes for people with MI, SUD, and/or IDD by addressing gaps and leveraging opportunities in the service system.

Intercept 0 and Intercept 1

Overview: Intercepts 0 and 1

Intercept 0 encompasses the early intervention points for people with MI, SUD, and/or IDD prior to possible arrest by law enforcement. It captures systems and services designed to connect people with treatment before a crisis begins or at the earliest possible stage of interaction with the behavioral health service system.

Intercept 1 encompasses initial contact with law enforcement and other emergency services responders. Law enforcement officers have considerable discretion in responding to a situation in the community involving a person with MI, SUD, and/or IDD who may be engaging in criminal conduct, experiencing a mental health crisis, or both. Intercept 1 captures systems and programs that are designed to divert people away from the justice system and toward treatment when safe and feasible.

Overview: Intercepts 2 and 3

After a person is arrested, they move to Intercept 2 of the model. At Intercept 2, a person is detained by law enforcement and faces an initial hearing presided over by a judge or magistrate. This is the first opportunity for judicial involvement, including interventions such as intake screening, early assessment, appointment of counsel, and pre-trial release for those with MI, SUD, and/or IDD.

During Intercept 3 of the model, people with MI, SUD, and/or IDD may be held in pre-trial detention at a local jail while awaiting the disposition of their criminal case.

Intercept 4 and Intercept 5

© 2019 Policy Research Associates, Inc.

Overview: Intercepts 4 and 5

At Intercept 4, people plan for and transition from jail or prison into the community. A well-supported reentry process uses assessments to identify individual needs and risk factors for reoffending. Collaborative case management strategies recruit stakeholders from the local mental health system, jail, community corrections (i.e., parole and probation), nonprofits, and other social service providers to meet needs identified through the use of evidence-based assessment tools.

People under correctional supervision, Intercept 5, are usually on probation or parole as part of their sentence, participating in a step-down process from prison, or complying with other statutory requirements. The last intercept of the model aims to combine justice system monitoring with person-focused service coordination to establish a safe and healthy post-criminal justice system lifestyle.

National and State Best Practices

Transition Planning

- Begins at intake
- Should involve community-based service providers
- Involves peer support services

Release

- Release time
- Transportation
- Access to medication

Community Partnerships

- Frequent communication between community behavioral health providers and probation officers
- Access to recovery supports

Appointment Follow-up

- Psychiatric medications
- Peer support services
- Scheduling appointments instead of giving referrals
- Transportation

Specialized Caseloads

- Mental health caseloads

Training and Education

- Crisis intervention training
- MHFA training

Brown County Intercepts 4 and 5 Gaps and Opportunities

<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• People returning from incarceration often lack reentry support and continuity of care, increasing risk of recidivism and behavioral health relapse.</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Incorporate peers into reentry programs and expand community support services post-release to promote recovery and reduce recidivism.</li></ul>
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Housing instability continues to be a barrier for successful reentry and supervision completion, especially for people with IDD.</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Expand transitional and community-based supportive housing options, including partnerships with non-traditional housing and local stakeholders.</li></ul>
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Communication and coordination between parole, probation, and community providers is limited, impeding access to resources and supervision success.</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Increase communication and information sharing between supervision entities and providers and hold routine stakeholder meetings to align efforts.</li></ul>
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Lack of IDD identification, data tracking, and early testing delay access to needed services and wraparound supports.</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Strengthening early intervention and prevention efforts by connecting with a local intellectual and developmental disability authority (LIDDA) building IDD data systems and coordinating guardianship support.</li></ul>

<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Resource loss in rural areas and limited awareness of existing services hinder community reintegration.</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Develop resource mapping and a centralized contact list to improve awareness and access and leverage local programs like West Central Texas Council of Governments or training.</li></ul>
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• People under community supervision experience medication disruptions and inconsistent service access during transitions.</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Support medication continuity and reassessment during supervision and parole to ensure behavioral health stability and service connection.</li></ul>

Gaps	Opportunities
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Victim needs and trauma recovery are not consistently addressed during or after reentry processes.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Expand victim resources and integrate trauma-informed approaches into reentry planning to support both justice-involved persons and affected victims.</li> </ul>

Priorities for Change

The priorities for change were determined through a voting process. Following completion of the SIM mapping exercise, the workshop participants defined specific activities to address the challenges and opportunities identified in the group discussion about the cross-systems map. Once priorities were identified, participants voted on their top priorities. The voting took place on February 27, 2025. The top four priorities identified by stakeholders are highlighted in bold text below. The workgroup changed the wording for the fourth priority to better reflect the intended purpose and goals. The edited name is reflected in this report.

Rank	Priority	Votes
1	Plan for a diversion center.	50
2	Implement CCP Article 16.22 process.	25
3	Expand housing options for people who are justice-involved.	21
4	Develop an interagency community resource directory.	18
5	Establish a behavioral health coordinated body to increase collaboration and communication.	14
6	Expand training for first responders and justice professionals on MI, SUD and IDD.	13
7	Expand specialized response options (e.g., crisis response teams).	11
8	Expand victim resources.	10
9	Promote care for caregivers.	10
10	Expand peer support and family services.	7
11	Develop a comprehensive resource list and explore ways to coordinate community referrals.	7
12	Increase data collection and information sharing across agencies (e.g., memorandums of understanding, releases of information).	7
13	Explore and educate on policies (e.g., emergency detention orders, medically unstable patients).	6
14	Expand SUD services (e.g., inpatient treatment, medication-assisted treatment, detoxification).	5
15	Bolster reentry planning and coordination.	2

Strategic Action Plans

Stakeholders spent the second day of the workshop developing action plans for the top three priorities for change. This section includes action plans developed by Brown County stakeholder workgroups, as well as additional considerations from HHSC on resources and best practices that could help inform implementation of each action plan. The following publications are also helpful resources to consider when addressing issues at the intersection of behavioral health and justice in Texas:

- All Texas Access Report, HHSC
- A Guide to Understanding the Mental Health System and Services in Texas, Hogg Foundation for Mental Health
- Texas Statewide Behavioral Health Strategic Plan, Texas Statewide Behavioral Health Coordinating Council
- The Texas Mental Health and Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities Law Bench Book, Fourth Edition, Judicial Commission on Mental Health (JCMH)

Finally, there are two overarching issues that should be considered across all action plans outlined below. The first is access. While the focus of the SIM mapping workshop is people with behavioral health needs and/or IDD, disparities in healthcare access and criminal justice-involvement can also be addressed to ensure comprehensive system change.

The second is trauma. It is estimated that 90 percent of people who are justice-involved have experienced traumatic events at some point in their life.<sup>2,3</sup> It is critical that both the health care and criminal justice systems be trauma-informed and that access to trauma screening and trauma-specific treatment is prioritized for this population. A trauma-informed approach incorporates three key elements: 1) Realizing the prevalence of trauma; 2) Recognizing how trauma affects all people involved with the program, organization, or system, including its own workforce; and 3) Responding by putting this knowledge into practice. See Trauma-Informed Care in Behavioral Health Services.

Priority Two: Implement CCP Article 16.22 Process

Objective	Action Steps
Identify a qualified mental health professional to complete CCP Article 16.22 mental health evaluation in the jail.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Check with jail navigator to clarify the process that will take place once the jail receives the CCP Article 16.22 order from the magistrate.</li><li>Consider incorporating the questionnaire currently used by the jail navigator for people with mental health flags.</li></ul>
Communicate and educate magistrates and justices of the peace (JPs) on CCP Article 16.22 process.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Arrange a meeting with magistrates and JPs in Brown and Mills counties to inform them of the CCP Article 16.22 process and the plan to implement it in their counties.</li><li>Invite the director of forensic services at CFLR to this meeting.</li><li>Designate a magistrate to handle all CCP Article 16.22 cases.</li></ul>
Build standardized mental health bond conditions.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Schedule a meeting to discuss bond conditions and designate action committee members to work on identified areas of collaboration.</li><li>Review JCMH's forms database for reference documents.</li><li>Meet with representatives in comparable counties such as Navarro, Taylor, Hale, Tom Green, and Erath to discuss how they implemented the CCP Article 16.22 process and any standardized mental health bond conditions they have in place for specialized cases. Coordinate with an indigent defense coordinator.</li><li>Provide the sample bond condition form to magistrates. Ask other counties if they have an example. ## Priority Three: Expand Housing Options for People Who Are Justice-Involved

Coordinate with community providers to assess need through data collection.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Probation office will collect data for the number of people released on probation with MI and a housing need.</li><li>Parole office will collect data for the number of people released on parole with MI and a housing need.</li></ul>
Identify funding opportunities for transitional housing programs for people with MI released on parole or probation with a housing need.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Meet with local stakeholders and discuss existing funding opportunities.</li><li>Explore available grant funding opportunities.</li><li>Use collected data to support funding applications.</li><li>Designate a stakeholder or smaller group to apply for state and national grant opportunities.</li></ul>
Identify potential locations or landlords willing to provide options for transitional housing.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Meet with county commissioners to speak to them about property tax breaks as a landlord incentive.</li><li>Explore availability of existing buildings to support transitional housing.</li><li>Conduct landlord outreach and engagement to increase the likelihood that landlords will accept people with prior justice involvement and who have complex behavioral health needs.</li></ul>
Plan and organize a capital campaign to raise funding and increase community buy-in.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Identify community stakeholders that would be interested in learning about the initiative and who might be able to offer help or resources in various capacities (e.g., professional volunteers for program services, social service agencies, landlords). The campaign may take the form of presentations to organizations and individuals or a community fair.</li></ul>

Objective	Action Steps
Explore model programs working to end homelessness in other Texas counties.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Taylor County and Lubbock County are currently involved in the Built for Zero initiative, a national change effort working to help communities end veteran and chronic homelessness. Community Solutions reports that Abilene, TX has achieved the milestone of ending both veteran and chronic homelessness. Adapting this model to address housing for the justice-involved population in Brown County could present an opportunity to tackle this issue.</li> <li>• Cities in Texas have developed landlord outreach and incentive programs to expand housing options for people who are justice-involved. The Ending Community Homelessness Organization (ECHO), the homeless continuum of care for the Austin and Travis County area, built a robust landlord outreach and engagement program that includes quickly filling vacancies and risk mitigation funds. Brown County could explore and adapt what ECHO has done to strengthen partnerships with landlords and property owners to increase access to housing for people with justice involvement.</li> <li>• The Austin/Travis County Reentry Roundtable published Locked Out: Criminal History Barriers to Affordable Rental Housing in Austin &amp; Travis County, Texas report in 2016, but the information is relevant and will provide a good foundation on key barriers and recommendations in working toward addressing housing for people who are justice-involved.</li> </ul>

Priority Four: Develop an Interagency Community Resource Directory

Objective	Action Steps
Broaden reach and engagement of current community interagency association group.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Collect resource lists and explanation of services.</li><li>• Identify community resources not connected to the current community interagency association group.</li><li>• Consider organizations outside the behavioral health community that may be a source of support such as 2-1-1 or Brown County United Way.</li><li>• Explore condensing this workgroup with the already established community interagency association group.</li></ul>
Create a broadly accessible resource list.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Utilize the resource map put together for the Brown County SIM workshop as a jumping off point for resources already available in the county.</li><li>• Identify and connect justice-involved and community resources and services.</li><li>• Identify and secure a way to dispense the resources (e.g., online, paper, or mobile application). For examples of how other counties have addressed this issue, see:<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>▶ Williamson County's Healthy Williamson County website; and</li><li>▶ Potter and Randall County's Panhandle Mental Health Guide website.</li></ul></li></ul>

Resources to Support Action Plan Implementation

SIM workshops are just the first step in implementing lasting change for communities. The following resources and recommendations have been developed based on national research and lessons learned from other Texas counties. Brown County stakeholders may consider these as they implement action plans developed during the SIM workshop.

Task Force and Networking

Frequent networking between systems can bolster sharing best practices and innovative adaptations to common problems (Steadman, Case, Noether, Califano, & Salasin, 2015).

Communication and Information Sharing

Misunderstanding data protection laws can inhibit continuity of care planning, potentially resulting in a lack of treatment connection post-release (McCarty, Rieckmann, Baker, & McConnell, 2017).

Boundary Spanner

A champion with 'boots-on-the-ground' experience working in multiple systems can enhance local coordination and service delivery. Boundary spanners can use their knowledge to advocate for people at key junctures in the criminal legal system (e.g., bond hearings, sentencing, or enrollment in specialty programs) (Steadman, 1992; Pettus & Severson, 2006; Munetz & Bonfine, 2015).

Local Champions

Interdisciplinary work benefits from strong, localized leadership to envision and enact change beyond traditional confines of a segmented system (Hendy & Barlow, 2012).

Ability to Measure Outcomes

Strategic planning at a county level is best informed by local data and having internal mechanisms to track outputs and outcomes (National Association of Counties, The Council of State Governments, and American Psychiatric Association, 2017).

Peer Involvement

There is substantial and growing evidence that engaging peers leads to better behavioral health and criminal justice outcomes. Peers are commonly found working in the community or with service providers, and stakeholders should consider how peers can be most effective within the criminal justice system.

Behavioral Health Leadership Teams

Establishing a team of county behavioral health and justice system leaders to lead policy, planning, and coordination efforts for people with behavioral health needs creates an opportunity for system-wide support of identified behavioral health and justice system priorities.

Plan for a Diversion Center

Best Practices

- Leverage existing efforts to promote diversion and identify opportunities to scale up existing services.
- “No wrong door” policies ensure people brought to the center are accepted so that utilization of the center is encouraged.
- Holistic services such as linkages to housing, primary care, and longer-term substance use recovery and psychosocial rehabilitation can help reduce criminogenic risk and stress associated with substance use disorders.
- Crisis diversion facilities are a physical manifestation of a community’s crisis care continuum. Facilities work in conjunction with crisis lines, walk-in services, co-responder models, police officers, specialty courts, and MCOTs.

Implement CCP Article 16.22 Process

Best Practices

- Treatment courts can be utilized by judges to connect people with appropriate treatment, community services, and ongoing judicial monitoring. These programs can provide services through a pre-plea or post-plea process. They may include specialty courts such as drug courts, mental health courts, or veterans courts.
- Foster interagency collaboration. Develop protocols that facilitate timely information sharing among sheriffs, magistrates, LMHAs, LBHAs, and other stakeholders.
- Enhance training and awareness. Provide training to law enforcement and judicial personnel on recognizing signs of MI and IDD as well as on the procedures outlined in CCP Article 16.22.
- Build standardized mental health bond conditions.

- Quick Fixes for Effectively Dealing with Persons Found Incompetent to Stand Trial from Policy Research Associates

Expand Housing Options for People Who Are Justice-Involved

Best Practices

- Prioritize access to permanent supportive housing without requiring sobriety, treatment compliance, or criminal justice supervision as a precondition.
- Implement reentry housing planning in correctional settings. Begin housing assessments and planning before release, ideally 6-12 months in advance.
- Cross-system collaboration that involves establishing partnerships among behavioral health agencies, housing authorities, justice system stakeholders, and community-based organizations.
- Implement fair chance housing policies by advocating for and implementing landlord education and policy reforms that reduce discrimination based on criminal history.

Develop an Interagency Community Resource Directory

Best Practices

- Establish regular cross-sector coordination meetings in order to maintain up-to-date resource sharing and strengthen partnerships.
- Develop a centralized and dynamic resource platform. A platform that is user-friendly and that allows easy updates will help to ensure resources remain current and accessible to providers and the public alike.
- Build in monitoring and evaluation mechanisms. Clear metrics and annual reviews are important in order to assess effectiveness of interagency resource efforts, guide improvements, and demonstrate impact to stakeholders and funders.
- Create a database of community resources that is accessible to everyone in the community and is regularly updated.

County Spotlight

- The Panhandle Mental Health Guide (PMHG) is a project of the Panhandle Behavioral Health Alliance in Potter and Randall Counties. PMHG is an online database for all resources related to behavioral health needs. This is an example of how resources might be managed in an online platform.

Key Resource

- The Central State is a project of the Translational Health Research Center at Texas State University. The project provides data and resources for people living along the Interstate 35 corridor. They have a resource database searchable by county or map view. This may not only be a resource to Brown County, but may also serve as an example of a platform geared toward the maintenance and upkeep of resources and data which are accessible to everyone in the community.
